Sugar Land Town Square launches its first-ever Restaurant Week, benefiting Fort Bend Cares.

SUGAR LAND, TEXAS (October 5, 2009) – Participating Sugar Land Town Square restaurants have teamed up for a good cause. During the week of November 1-8, Town Square visitors can take advantage of Sugar Land Town Square’s Restaurant Week, where three-course menus will be offered for $25 at select eateries, including Escalante’s, Olive’s Martini Bar, Fish City Grill, Japaneiro’s, Vineyard on the Square and Taisho Japanese Grill & Bar. Five dollars from each meal will go directly to Fort Bend Cares.

“We are very excited to announce Restaurant Week. This type of promotion has been successful all over the country, so why not offer it in Sugar Land?” said Rita Sosebee, marketing and event manager for Planned Community Developers. “Whether it’s your first time dining in Town Square or you’re a regular customer, there’s something for everybody and a chance to try out a fantastic menu for a great price.”

Fort Bend Cares is a charitable foundation with a mission to offer funds and support to organizations and programs that serve Fort Bend County, with an emphasis on disadvantaged youth.
